

HUNGER ACTION MONTH: Movie list

A Place At The Table (2013)

Where to Stream: Hulu

This documentary is an examination of the issue of hunger in America focuses on the plight of three individuals from different parts of the country who struggle to find adequate nutrition.

Hunger in America (2014)

Where to Stream: Amazon Prime

Emmy award winner. Narrated by James Denton, this powerful documentary tackles the hunger epidemic in America and will change your perception on hunger. Today, one in six people, including hard-working men and women, suburban families and children are struggling with hunger. The face of hunger in America is not just the homeless, it's grandparents raising babies, it's the elderly, it's the infirm.

FRESH (2009)

Where to stream: Amazon ($2.99 to rent, free with add-on services)

Both an enlightening documentary and a stirring call to action, Fresh outlines the vicious cycle of our current food production methods, while also celebrating the farmers, thinkers and business people who are reinventing our food system.

Dive! (2009)

Where to stream: Amazon ($7.99 to buy, free to watch with add-on services)

In "Dive! The Film," Director Jeremy Seifert and his friends highlight food waste in America by dumpster diving in various grocery stores around Los Angeles. Every American wastes around 20 pounds of food every month, costing U.S. consumers an estimated US$165 billion each year, according to the Natural Resources Defense Council. The narrators evidence these facts by finding massive amounts of edible food in the dumpsters and confront store managers on their food donation policies. This multi-award winning documentary not only reveals the wasteful practices of grocery stores but also urges individual consumers to change their habits by offering advice and practical home solutions to reduce household waste.

Thought For Food: The Documentary (2013)

Where to stream: tffchallenge.com/watch-us/documentary/

This short film provides an inspirational glimpse into the motivations, ideas and impact of the next generation of innovators for food security. The TFF film crew crisscrossed the globe to meet the 2013 competition's five finalist teams, hailing from Kenya, India, USA and the Netherlands, and captured them in action changing the world.

How to Feed the World? (2010)

Where to stream: Vimeo

This 10-minute film was created for a Bon Appétit exhibition in Paris. It describes how developed countries can address food insecurity by investing in international development and consuming more foods with lower environmental impact. Created for children ages 9 to 14, "How to Feed the World?" explores food justice, dietary insufficiencies, the economic consequences of food aid, and the idea of a new type of agriculture for feeding more people with less environmental harm.